Fire Crews Fight Pyramid Fire

By Sarah Brown

Of The New Era

What began as a three acre fire east of Sweet Home quickly expanded to 60 acres and, later, to as much as 600 acres, during the past week. Fire crews continue to battle the blaze as it consumes old growth in rugged terrain.

Known as the "Pyramid Fire" and located approximately 19.4 miles east of Green Peter Dam, Willamette National Forest (WNF) reported on Monday, July 22, that a change in weather conditions helped reduce fire activity to 535 acres. Still, WNF reports there is zero percent containment and 197 personnel are engaged in the work.

Reports indicate the fire was discovered at 12:26 p.m. on Wednesday, July 17, and Linn County Sheriff's Office issued a LEVEL 3: GO NOW! Evacuation Alert for the area the next day when it had reached 60 acres. WNF followed suit on Friday, issuing an emergency closure.

The Sweet Home Wrestling program saw athletes represent Oregon about 5,000 miles away, in Japan. Jayce Miller and Ashton Swanson are two of 13 athletes who qualified for the team, thanks to the Oregon Wrestling Asso-

Miller and Swanson earned this opportunity during the 2024 Oregon Cultural Exchange Championship that took place at the Sweet Home High School on March 16. According to Swanson, the pair were wild-card picks, both making it to the finals but not winning the tournament; the coaches chose these boys.

"I qualified by being selected as a wild card by coaches at the tournament, meaning I didn't win the tournament but coaches still thought I should go," Miller said.

After qualifying, these boys had months of preparation leading up to this trip. This preparation led up to the day they left, leaving June 30.

"I am incredibly proud of Ashton and Jayce," Head Coach Steve Thorpe said.

"Very proud of them and how they represented our program."

On their first day, July 1, the team started with a dual meet after exploring Mie Prefecture, a mainland part of Japan known for various sacred locations. They then traveled to Toyama Prefecture.

The next day the team spent exploring.

"It was amazing, the people were very welcoming, the food and culture were amazing as well. We visited a lot of temples and statues," Miller stated. "We also got to get immersed in Japanese culture in a way not a lot of people would be able to."

OBITUARIES

Jayden Alan Turner June 12, 2012 - July 3, 2024

Jayden Alan Turner, 12, of Sweet Home went to join our Father in Heaven unexpectedly on July 3, 2024. He was born June 12, 2012 in Lebanon to Esther Turner and Scott Alan Turner. He was the blessing they had been praying for.

Jayden loved to live life to the fullest and had this big Jayden lived in Scio from birth until 2021 where he attended preschool in 2015-2016 at Lollipop Lane Preschool. He attended Scio Centennial Elementary from kindergarten thru second grade. He then attended Lourdes Charter School starting in 2020. In 2021, Scott and Esther moved to Sweet Home to a larger property where Jayden loved spending time outside riding his bike, driving his side-by-side, and playing in their pool. He continued attending school at Lourdes and had just finished the 6th grade. He excelled there and his parents made sacrifices to drive the three hours round trip each day to see him thrive in his schooling with the help of wonderful teachers.

Like a typical boy, he loved his Xbox games, Fornite, Roblox, and Minecraft. He had a passion for racing RC cars and building everything with his large Lego collection. He enjoyed spending time with his friends, swimming in their pool, playing soccer, basketball, and riding quads.

His soft heart had a love for all animals. He had several dogs growing up and the love he had for them was so special. Jayden loved so many, and was loved by so many more. Most importantly, Jayden had a deep love for his mom and dad and cherished the time they spent making memories.

Jayden is survived by his mother, Esther Turner of Albany; father, Scott Turner of Sweet Home; sister, Hannah Turner of Albany; grandmother, Sandra Aguilar of Miami, Florida, grandparents, George and Connie Turner of Albany; great-grandmother, Colleen Cooley of Albany; and lots of aunts and uncles and cousins who also live in Albany, Miami and Louisiana.

A celebration of Jayden's life will be 10 am Thursday, August 1, at the Amphitheater at Community Chapel, 42250 Ames Creek Rd., Sweet Home. The family extends an invitation for all to come. A live broadcast of the memorial will be available for those unable to attend. Information to follow. Sweet Home Funeral Chapel is handling arrangements. www.sweethomefuneral.com.

Linn County Public Health Expands Outreach in Sweet Home

By Alex Paul

For The New Era

Linn County Public Health is expanding its outreach into east Linn County, recently completing an upgrade of its building in Sweet Home and doubling the amount of space it utilizes in that building.

For several years, Benton County had teamed up with Linn County to provide the Federal Quality Healthcare Center out of the 5,000 square foot building at 799 Long St. Recently, Benton County moved into another building, providing Linn County the opportunity to expand its offerings there.

Sandy Minta of Linn County Mental Health said the county plans to "provide outpatient services to adults and children. We also have mobile crisis response and community outreach to individuals with severe mental illness in Sweet Home."

She said expanded services will include individual, group and psychiatric (medication) services five days per week.

Public Health Manager Shane Sanderson said Maternal Child Health will provide services one day a week, the county's immunization team will now be providing vaccines at that site and WIC will be there one to two days so people can schedule and be seen locally.

"Health Promotions will be there one to two days a week doing community organizing/education in various subject areas (tobacco cessation, access to care, OHP/ insurance assistance, etc.)," Sanderson said.

Alcohol and Drug Manager Justin Thomas said that in 2023 more than 100 Sweet Home residents received services, primarily through the

the year. Public Health Administrator Terri McQueen said Vernon Mills of General Services oversaw the project with services provided by the following contractors: Paint Doctors: interior painting; IP Harvest Construction: vinyl and carpet; Premier Electric: electrical and data ports; Complete Plumbing: installed new toilets and added water bottle station; SAS Balancing: updated HVAC flow; Larsell Mechanical: updated duct work; Oregon Corrections Enterprise: new desks, three-drawer system, and side/lobby chairs; ErgoCentric: new office desk chairs.

evacuation boundary closed. This includes Soda Fork and Sheep Creek areas over to Lava Lake.

The public should not enter the evacuation area. Emergency crews and response vehicles will be heavily present, and public traffic can hinder their efforts to fight the fire. Sheriff Duncan said the evacuation area allows wildfire response teams enough space to safely travel and fight the fire.

As the fire spread, it appears to have merged with the Johnny Creek and 212 SRZ fires to its north. The California Interagency Incident Management Team 5 assumed command of the Pyramid Fire on Sunday.

"Crews have been constructing indirect containment lines using heavy equipment, opening up old roads and clearing trails in an effort to keep the fire from spreading into the Middle Santiam Wilderness, private industrial timberlands and communities," WNF stated in a press release on Sunday. "The fire is being managed under a full suppression strategy and the team has ordered more resources and equipment to battle the fire while always keeping firefighter safety in mind."

WNF reported in a press release on Monday that the fire is in a mature forest that has no recent history of fire, and is located in steep, rugged and inaccessible terrain.

"Crews have begun improving and opening existing forest and overgrown roads, which will help prevent the fire from spreading towards the Middle Santiam Wilderness, private industrial timberlands and nearby communities," WNF reported. "Today, control efforts will focus on using heavy equipment to open and improve the 2041 Road (Bridge to Nowhere trail) and the forest road near Shedd Camp."

A WNF Red Flag Warning expired yesterday, and they reported that near-normal temperatures and humidity are forecast for the rest of the week as onshore flow pushes cooler marine air inland.

Wildland Division Chief Sworn In

By Sky Chappell Of The New Era

Many things were discussed during the July 16 fire board meeting. A Wildland Division update was on the forefront of these discussions.

Christian Whitfield signing and being sworn in as the division chief for the new Wildland Division.

"With the launch of our Wildland Division, we are temporarily promoting Christian to the division chief of our Wildland Division," Deputy Chief George Virtue stated.

After being sworn in, Whitfield provided an update on the division, first commenting on how the wildland division paperwork was officially sent off.

"Today, at about 5 p.m or so, we signed the contract with the NFF (National Forest Foundation) officially," Whitfield said. "It is officially signed, and we will be getting a start date immediately."

With that, the district has posted for seven different positions: true entry level, forest technician, wildland firefighter and paramedic, squad boss, crew foreman and crew boss.

"We might not hire all those positions right away, but we have the framework if we have the right people and right applicants to do so," Whitfield

Whitfield is hoping to hire The meeting began with 10-15 people, depending on applicants. These applications will be open for two weeks, with oral interviews taking place July 29-30. According to Whitfield, there were 21 applicants ranging from entry level to crew boss. These positions are seasonal.

Local Author Publishes First in a Trilogy

By Sarah Brown

Of The New Era

Investing his time into creating a craft with 72,000 words, local author Jim Corley was able to celebrate his completed work with a book signing held at the Sweet Home Public Library on Thursday, July 18.

"When I could actually hold a copy of the completed book in my hot little hands, it felt very gratifying – a sense of accomplishment," he said.

The 80-year-old already has a couple other books under his belt, but his most recent work, "The Secrets of Solomon's Seal: A Palestinian Story," is the first in a trilogy that follows a Palestinian Muslim and an Israeli Mossad agent.

Being pro-Jesus, pro-Israel and pro-Palestine, Corley said he wanted to put characters from each nation together in a conflict while still portraying both sides in a positive light and ultimately bringing the Muslim through to the end with a different perspective on the Bible than what he was raised to believe.

It was 9/11 that made Corley realize he had enemies, and it was the event that pushed him to question, "How do I love my enemies?" Through his journey of writing Solomon's Seal, he created his characters Rahm Khalidi and Adi Ovitz, and used them as tools for Corley's own purpose: to be a peacemaker.

Corley, a former pastor, hosts a weekly writer's critique group – called Inkslingers – on Tuesdays at 11 a.m. in the public library. He also assists with an online summer writing course, "Writing for Publication," which can be found at https://bit.ly/Corley-Class.

For those who have been thinking about writing a book, Corley offers two pieces of advice. First, BIC (or, Butt In Chair). Second, join a writer's group tude, but gets better in community," he said.

Participating in a writer's group holds him accountable to keep his butt in his chair and produce something more, he added.

Quoting his father-in-law, former Linn County Undersheriff Clyde McLain Sr., "a very wise man," Corley stated, "We all need a little adult supervision."

As with his other books, Corley's self-published works are available through Amazon (perhaps best found by doing a search under his name J. Michael Corley).

Talks About 1st Avenue Traffic Mitigation Continue

By Sarah Brown Of The New Era

The Public & Traffic Safety Committee continued its discussion about how to control traffic concerns on 1st Avenue between Highway 20 and Oregon 228 during its July 10 meeting.

"Part of the reason why we brought this up is because we are hearing from so many different residents on 1st Avenue requesting something to be done," City Manager Kelcey Young said. "What we're hearing the most is for it to get closed off, (while) some of them want any type of traffic control."

It's a question the committee, city staff and city council have been talking about for months now. It's also the reason the committee was recreated, Young said.

In February, Young told the committee there was evidence of speeding on the street and one idea to curb the problem included making some temporary changes to the street - such as, perhaps, placing a closure barricade at 1st and Highway 20 – to study how that would affect traffic patterns and solicit public input about the change. She added that Committee Chair Frank Gallagher had surveyed residents along the street who indicated support for a potential closure which would ultimately create a cul-de-sac at the end.

In April, Young brought information to the committee that the City Council wanted staff to look into additional options for mitigating the traffic issues before making any decisions. Responding to a suggestion by Gallagher to place stop signs at Oregon 228 and 1st Avenue, Young said there is a plan in the next Transportation System Plan to place an intersection there for improved safety.

In May, consultants presented their findings to the Park and Tree Committee for an updated Parks Master Plan, which included a brief discussion about recommendations for the street, including the north end closure and traffic calming designs. The purpose would create more functionality and access for Clover Memorial Park.

During the July 10 meeting, the committee talked about options such as speed bumps and closing off the north end of 1st Avenue, and ultimately decided to bring the matter before City Council again.

Committee Member Vince Adams shared an idea about emergency vehicle-friendly speed bumps.

"I think and really believe that that's the direction we should go with that," Adams said. "They're not that inconvenient, and I would fully support something of that nature rather than try and cut that street off."

He said he believes after drivers realize they can't "haul up the street like they used to," they will find alternate routes.

A traffic study provided at the meeting indicated that an average 1,700 to 1,800 cars travel that strip a day. Community Service Officer Sean Morgan said there are usually less than 160 cars on the street per hour, or more than two cars per minute during the busier times in the mornings and evenings.

Committee Member Bud Mather supported the idea of closing off the north end, and also suggested a third option: putting in a three-way stop at 1st Avenue and Nandina Street. Committee Member Joe Graybill indicated he was more concerned about the quantity of cars than the speed because he believes the speed concern has improved during the past few years. What he would like to see, he said, is options and cost estimates.

Graybill said he compared how long it would take to get to the OR 228 /1st Avenue intersection if speed bumps were installed on the street.

"First Avenue at 25 miles an hour, it takes you about 45 seconds to get from one end to the other," he said. "If you're getting there any faster, you're driving too fast."

To get from 1st Avenue to the signals, it takes about 45 seconds, plus an additional 45 seconds to go from the signals to 1st/228.

"A bypass going around a closed 1st Avenue, if it ever came to that, is basically doubling the time," he said.

He further shared that when this issue was under the microscope in the past, there were concerns about limiting access for emergency vehicles.

"One of the reasons nothing happened roughly 10 to 15 years ago was the cost," Graybill said.

Young responded that the desired speed humps are significantly more expensive than doing a road closure.

A resident, identified only as Mr. Jackson, said he lives on the "1st Avenue freeway" and he surveyed 32 houses on the street.

"One hundred percent wanted that road closed to through traffic," he said. "The reality is, it's been going on for over 20 years. Something has got to be done before a kid dies. They say the cost of road bumps is expensive; what's the cost of a life?"

He testified he's had numerous close calls with being hit on that street, and cited one incident when a driver bypassed a car by driving on the sidewalk.

"Somehow we need to move forward with this because we're here for a reason," Adams said.

He reiterated that he does not support road closures and would want speed humps instead, adding that if 1st Avenue gets closed off at the north end, then the city should follow suit with a road closure at Mountain View, as well, for the same reason.

Young responded that 1st Avenue was a poorly designed "mistake" which requires some sort of rectification and it differs from other street problems, such as Mountain View.

"If you're really trying to make this neighborhood safer, close it," Young said.

Graybill noted they should expect some pushback from drivers if the city even places a temporary closure on the street. He'd like to see how it pans out in test mode for a couple months.

"I found when I went the long way around, it wasn't all that long," Graybill said. "I have known over the years significant concerns on 1st Avenue and I think it's a workable solution to do that."

In other business:

- The committee briefly reviewed traffic analysis of Oak Terrace and Long Street;
- Adams said log trucks parked on the street take up too much space and create unsafe driving conditions because drivers cannot see cross-traffic, pedestrians or animals until it's too late. As such, he thinks commercial vehicles should be parked on the owner's property. Young said city staff would review ordinances to determine how to move forward on those concerns.

New Exhibit Features Watercolor Paintings

By Sarah Brown Of The New Era

Artist Satina Tolman loves water, so it's no surprise that she excels at watercolor painting.

Tolman's artwork is now on display at City Hall until the end of August, featuring pieces she's created since she learned watercolor four years

It was just a one-hour introductory online course that propelled her into this new medium as a creative outlet.

"I just became fascinated with it," Tolman said. "It was fun learning how the water and the paint work together. It was 2020, when life was crazy and chaotic, and watercolor brought me peace and joy."

The mother of four has been an artist since high school, using pencil and acrylic as her medium, but now watercolor is her preferred method.

"Recently I tried to do an acrylic painting and it's so different than watercolor that I realized I really don't like (acrylic)," she said. "I don't like the way the paint doesn't flow and doesn't blend as well."

It makes sense, though, Painting with water is like painting with nature, which seems to be at the core of who Tolman is, and objects of nature are what she most often paints.

"I seem to be drawn to nature," she said. "I really like flowers and scenery, mountains and trees, things like that. I'm really drawn to water in a lot of areas of my life. Water brings me peace. I love to go to the ocean and just sit and watch the waves for

A striking image in her collection at City Hall includes "Sunset Solitude," which is her rendition of a photograph she found, depicting the silhouette of a girl in a small boat dipping her fingers in the water while the sun sets in the background.

"I've been that girl in the boat that's just been entranced with the water and enjoying the peace of the sunset," Tolman said.

The artist has been known to offer watercolor lessons, and will do commissioned pieces. Anyone interested may contact her via email at tolmansatina@gmail.com using the subject line, "Art Inquiry."

Raised in North Dakota, she moved to Oregon some time ago with her husband, Nathan, and the pair landed in Sweet Home almost 13 years ago. They live on the lake. She loves the outdoors, spending time with such activities as hiking and paddle boarding.

Tolman expresses her creative side through other outlets, as well, such as baking and writing poetry, but she's also known around town as something of a playwright for her contribution to the community with "The Innkeepers," a Christmas story that explores the perspectives of the innkeepers who turned Mary and Joseph away on the night of Jesus' birth.

It was a play she originally wrote for her church, she said, but the story has since been written as a book, and Tolman is turning the play into an annual production for the city.

A&W's Burger Family Statues Reunite at Sportsman's Holiday

By Sky Chappell Of The New Era

Sweet Home's A&W recently showcased some of the original A&W statues during the Sportsman's Holiday Parade, July 13.

According to roadarch.com, A&W's Burger Family of Papa, Mama, and Baby Burger appeared for the first time in 1963. When the Great Root Bear mascot was introduced a year later, A&W instructed restaurant operators to remove the Burger Family and their statues from advertising materials, though many ended up being saved.

Although these statues are no longer made, owner Josh Hankins has still always had the idea of incorporating more "nostalgia" pieces into the restaurant. Hankins and his wife, Patty, purchased this A&W location from the Weaver family in 1999.

"[I've] been told throughout the years that this is a destination," Hankins said. "[It] feels like it's an original, still following the old styles."

As for keeping the drive-in style of the restaurant, Hankins stated the Sweet Home location is a legacy store. He also mentioned how many other legacy stores around the nation have found and purchased these statues.

As Hankins sits on the board of franchisees, he must attend a quarterly meeting at the A&W headquarters in Kentucky. It was during the most recent meeting that he was able to meet Pete Knight who, according to Hankins, is the historian of the franchise group.

Hankins mentioned his hunt for those statues to Knight and, in 2021, Knight was able to find the full family set. The only issue was, they were on the other side of the country in Missouri; due to increasing travel costs, Hankins was unable to secure these statues. Information about more statues went silent, until Hankins was sent a message about three of the set of four statues being located in Turlock, California.

He immediately jumped at the opportunity, requesting the original listing to be taken off of eBay to ensure a private bid could be placed. He paid an undisclosed amount and traveled to California to get the statues.

These statues have been kept behind closed doors until the Sportsman's Holiday Parade, where a float showcased them to the community for the first time in decades. The only issues are the missing burger one of the statues is holding, and the absent Baby Burger

Hankins stated his hopes for these statues is to get them up as early as fall, with the latest being by the end of the year.

Q: What are the worst drinks for my teeth?

A: Ironically, many of the foods and drinks we enjoy the most aren't good for us at all.

1. SODA. Two of the most harmful things for our teeth are sugar and acid, and carbonated beverages are full of both! The teeth literally start dissolving under the attack of the acid, leading to cavities.

Wolthuis Family Dentistry

2. SPORTS DRINKS. Like soda, they are often full of sugar and are highly acidic. One study showed that lemon-lime Gatorade dissolved more tooth enamel than any other drink, including Coke.

3. FRUIT JUICE. After reading to this point, you probably know why this is on the list. Juice has lots of sugar and acid too. While it could be considered a healthy option, most fitness experts will advise you not to drink your calories. Eat the entire fruit instead, and enjoy the health benefits of the fiber.

Drink lots of water, maintain a healthy diet and lifestyle, and see your dentist regularly, to be sure your teeth stay in good shape!

interested in the past, Lois agreed to store articles reflecting the area's history in her basement for safe keeping. When she and Ernest moved to Fern Ridge outside of Sweet Home, a little museum of goods traveled with them and was available to form a foundation for a local museum, being inspired by positive success in settling the Oregon Territory beginning in the 1830's and 1840's when Robnetts and Rices were among those journeying over the Oregon Trail by covered wagon.

A committee of volunteers worked to buy the building at 746 Long Street which had previously been occupied by two churches, the RLDS and the church of the Nazarene on their way to construct new buildings. This building had originally stood as a Sunnyside school house but. with the damming of the South Santiam River, it was torn down and reconstructed at its current location.

From its beginning, the East Linn Museum was non-profit, funded and supported by membership dues and the work of volunteers. Donations have also been welcomed plus a legacy from Sam Cairnes, an educator and long time Scoutmaster in the area, which explains the Museum's healthy collection of Boy Scout history and paraphernalia.

Families here, too, provided cherished relics and pictures of their ancestors. This enhances the Museum's displays by having portraits of those who lived here hanging in the Museum's front rooms, Wylies, Weddles, Barrs, Mosses, Gillilands among them.

The churches were the first to make additions to the building but over the years as more articles were received additions were also made by the Museum. It was enlarge with the addition of annexes to the north side of the building and along the rear. There are two outside sheds, also, one housing farming gear and the other the Denby truck and other articles associated with farming and logging.

Along with Lois Rice, Don Menear brought many artifacts to the Museum and he actually drove the Denby truck, a doorless contraption with the gas tank behind the front seat, in parades because, as an early version in a logging area, it is a truck worth seeing.

Remodeled to look like a church, the Sunnyside school house has disappeared. Although signs announce this building as the East Linn Museum, many people don't realize it has become one.

A visitor came to the Museum with her husband to return to the church in which they were married. She saw it had become a museum and was not mollified by the varied and many artifacts on display and left disappointed. But most people visiting the place note how interesting it has become.

And it is an interesting place to visit as we have stressed in writing articles for The New Era. These articles are meant to encourage people to take awareness of the Museum and to visit it for goodness sake. But can they visit if there aren't enough volunteers to keep the place open? The volunteers from the Museum's earliest years, Lois Rice, Don Menear, Bud and Martha Steinbacher, Arleigh Elliott, Jess Barr, Elsie Robnett and Lucille Rapp are gone, not surprisingly since the Museum is coming up to its fiftieth anniversary. However, we don't want to get there with its doors locked and disagreement on how to disperse its goods.

Are things getting dire? Yes. For the past few years, the Museum has been limping along without enough active members willing to be on the board of directors. And not until this article was being written has anyone stepped forward to assume the position of chairman of the board. The Museum has had some really good volunteers, but they are volunteers giving of their own time and knowledge. Recently that is how the outside blacksmith shop got a new life which now lets it be visited by the public when accompanied by a volunteer.

However, even good volunteers have to answer to family demands, changes in health and other issues. On the other hand, it comes as a surprise when we hear someone from a local museum nearby say, "I think of this museum as being a microcosm reflecting the macrocosm of the wider world." because that is how we feel about our museum. In reality, thanks to the Bicentennial prompting of the 1970's, the East Linn Museum is not the only once-upon-a-time entity.

Yet, in many ways, it is singular. Its artifacts reflect farming, stock raising, mining, logging. It has a saw and ax collection in reference to the timber industry and an unexpected steam whistle brought to the Santiam sawmill in 1941 by Joe Fallon who remembered it from his younger years in the Middle west as a relic of a packet paddle-wheeler, the Tarascon, decommissioned in 1928. Instead of running on Midwestern rivers and announcing the steamboat's arrival, the whistle became part of Sweet Home's history announcing work time for the sawmill's employees and sometimes letting the listeners know of emergencies. We can hear that sound on a recording near the whistle.

And just recently we mentioned the forty-two inch long saber and scabbard used by William Phillips when he served in the 7th Iowa Cavalry chasing the Sioux in Dakota Territory during the American Civil War. Various collections like those of telephones, irons, cameras and even washing machines and examples of technological changes.

Books and family records in the research room help visualize past history, especially old Sears Roebuck catalogs. To aid guests passing through, a team of excellent volunteers put labels on nearly everything so those guests can be guided, so to speak, into the past which has been called a foreign land. Going through the various annexes can be an adventure for both visitors and volunteers.

And, volunteers need not know everything there is to know about the Museum. Most people know more than they think they do, anyway, and "mind stimulating artifacts" will encourage further knowledge on a show and tell basis. The East Linn Museum, after all, is a homey place with parlor, kitchen and bedroom displays.

Those volunteers left are not about to give up on Lois Rice's dream of having a local museum celebrating the past of the East Linn area. However, we are only open three days a week and may have to go to two days, Fridays and Saturdays. In general, some visualize museum volunteers as sweet (but eagle eyed) old ladies smelling of peppermints. Not so. At least the old ladies on hand do not smell of peppermints and their wardrobes are the standard shirts, pants and track shoes of today. There aren't too many requirements to be a volunteer. Just be honest, of a responsible age, patient, and interested in history.

Those at the Museum look forward to meeting you. We want to thank The New Era and its continuing support and all of those who helped

$oldsymbol{Q}_{oldsymbol{\cdot}}^{oldsymbol{\cdot}}$ Do I have dry eyes or allergies?

A: Although allergy season is in full swing some people who have allergy type symptoms may in fact have dry eyes. There are specific eye drops for allergies and dry eyes. It's important to use the correct drop or you may make your symptoms worse. Education or evaluation can facilitate the right treatment. Dry eye is an inflammation type condition in which there are insufficient tears to lubricate and nourish the eye. Tears are necessary for maintaining the health of the front surface of the eye and for providing clear vision. People with dry eyes either do not produce enough tears or have a poor quality of tears. Dry eye is a common and often chronic problem, particularly in older adults. The primary approaches used to manage and treat dry eyes include adding tears, conserving tears, increasing tear production, and/or treat the inflammation of the eyelids or eye surface that contributes to the dry eyes. Ocular Allergies is the abnormal response of sensitive eyes to contact with allergens and other irritating substances. Pollen in the air is the most common cause of allergy symptoms but other things in the air such as smoke, animal dander or fumes may also trigger an allergic response. The primary approach to manage ocular allergy is avoidance of allergic triggers, cool compresses, eyewash, oral anti-histamines or eye drops specific for allergies. Most eye drops used for dry eyes are mainly used to increase volume of tears. Drops used for ocular allergies have an anti-histamine component, which reduces the effects of histamine but also dry the eye. Using an ocular allergy drop will make a dry eye problem feel worse. If you are unable to find relief you should have your eyes evaluated to determine what condition you have and the best treatment options available to you specifically.

Woman Charged with Sexual Assault of Animal

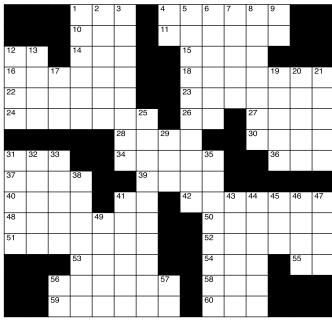

A Sweet Home woman is being charged with sexual assault of an animal after allegedly, according to court documents, causing an animal to contact a part of the body for the purpose of arousing and gratifying the sexual desire of a person on April 7, 2024.

A warrant is out for Courtney Lydon, 45, on this charge. Sweet Home Police Chief Jason Ogden said a complaint was lodged at Sweet Home Police Department and an investigation ensued.

Captain Ryan Cummings further explained that police were provided video evidence involving a dog and, after investigation, the case was sent to the district attorney's office for review.

Deputy District Attorney Lindy Pyle filed the charge at the Linn County Circuit Court on July 9.
